What is a "priming lien" and what requirements must be met for such a lien to be granted to secure DIP financing?         A priming lien is a lien securing post-petition financing that is senior or equal to a lien already attached to estate property. In order for such a lien to be granted, the debtor must demonstrate that the interest of the 'primed' secured creditor is adequately protected. By contrast, if the ruling below was in a noncore proceeding or the bankruptcy court did not have authority to enter a final order, the district court or BAP reviews de novo all findings of fact and conclusions of law which have been objected by a party. Describe how claims for recovery of preferences, fraudulent conveyance and constructive fraudulent conveyance differ.
Preferences
Claims for the recovery of preferences are usually aimed at transactions immediately prior to bankruptcy, whereby a transfer of the debtor's estate has been made in a suspect period before the petition date. If the amount transferred exceeds the amount the recipient would have received in a chapter 7 liquidation (had the transfer not been made), the transfer sum or other consideration transferred must be returned to the estate. Notably, due to the balance of competing principles and values such as the protection of secured parties and the encouragement of lending to distressed businesses, creditors have a number of defences that may allow them to keep pre-petition transfers that occurred during the suspect period.	Commented [A&O44]: The transfer must be to a creditor on account of an antecedent debt while the debtor is insolvent, whereas any transfer to any party may be a fraudulent conveyance and insolvency is not a necessary element. Commented [A&O45]: The suspect period is 90 days for third parties and 1 year for insiders.
Fraudulent Conveyance
Claims for the recovery of fraudulent conveyances are aimed at other transactions within a two year period prior to the petition date where it is proven that the debtor showed fraudulent intent. Intent may be proven circumstantially by reference to a wide range of 'badges of fraud' developed in state law relating to fraudulent transfers.	Commented [A&O46]: Correct, ½ mark, this period also applies to constructive fraudulent conveyances Commented [A&O47]: Correct, ½ mark
Constructive Fraudulent Conveyance
Claims for the recovery of constructive fraudulent conveyances are aimed at transactions where the debtor received consideration less than equivalent value for a transfer or incurrence of obligation whereby the debtor was either:
<ul> <li>Insolvent at the time of the transaction or became insolvent as a result of the transaction</li> <li>Unreasonably undercapitalized for the business or transactions it was engaged in (or planned to engage in)</li> <li>Intended to or believed they would incur debts beyond their ability to pay on maturity</li> <li>The transfer was made to or for the benefit of an insider, or the debtor incurred an obligation under an employment contract with an insider outside the ordinary course of business.</li> </ul>
In order to bring a claim for the recovery of constructive fraudulent conveyance, fraudulent intent does not have to be shown.
The differences highlighted above are provisions contained in the Bankruptcy Code. In addition to these provisions, other applicable non-bankruptcy laws may be invoked which may have longer look back periods (e.g. in New York, there is a look back period of six years from transfer or two years from discovery) and may not be subject to extraterritoriality limitations.

How does a US bankruptcy court determine whether a foreign proceeding is a main or non- main proceeding under chapter 15?
A US bankruptcy court determines whether a foreign proceeding is a main proceeding by determining whether or not the main proceeding was commenced in the debtor's centre of main interests (COMI). A debtor's COMI is presumed to be in its place of incorporation but this is rebuttable.	Commented [A&O49]: Specifically, a foreign main proceeding is one pending in the debtor's COMI
	Commented [A&O50]: Correct, ½ mark

	As per the case of Morning Mist, the court should determine the debtor's COMI on the basis of objective evidence. A debtor's COMI can be ascertained by analysis of its creditors or other hird parties.	Commented [A&O51]: Correct, ½ mark
	As per the case of Re SPhiX, Ltd, in order to determine where the COMI is located, the court will analyse the location of the debtor's headquarters, the location of the debtor's nanagement, the location of the debtor's primary assets and the location of the majority of the debtor's creditors or the location of the majority of creditors that will be affected by the relief sought by the foreign representative. In addition, the court will also analyse the location of the egal jurisdiction that will apply to most disputes.

This practice has attracted criticism and proposals for the Bankruptcy Code to be amended have been put forward by the National Bankruptcy Council to allow the assessment of COMI to take place at the commencement of the foreign proceedings.
	As for non-main proceedings, this is recognized where there are proceedings taking place in i i i i i i	Rental Corporation is a publicly-traded company that leases office space from office building owners and sublets the space to small businesses. It has recently announced that it is being nvestigated by the US Department of Justice Fraud Division (DOJ) regarding allegedly raudulent misstatements of revenues; shortly after the announcement, a securities class action litigation was filed against Rental Corporation in New York federal court. Due to the ncrease in the numbers of businesses operating remotely, Rental Corporation has suffered a decline in revenues. As a result, it has failed to pay rent on some of its office space leases and it has just defaulted on its quarterly payment on its credit facility. What would be the effect of a chapter 11 petition being filed by Rental Corporation on each of (i) the DOJ investigation, (ii) the securities class action litigation; (iii) the delinquent leases and (iv) the credit facility?

	The DOJ Investigation
Ň	The DOJ Investigation would be covered under the statutory exceptions of the Chapter 11 worldwide automatic stay. As such, the chapter 11 petition would have no impact on the DOJ nvestigation and it would be able to continue as normal.	Commented [A&O57]: Correct, 1 mark

The lease of office space is an executory contract and can be assigned without consent. On the presentation of a chapter 11 petition, the debtor can elect to either reject the contract, assume the contract or assume and assign the contract. In a chapter 11 case, the debtor has until the confirmation of its reorganization plan to make the election but a deadline can be imposed by the bankruptcy court.

The credit facility

The worldwide stay imposed by the chapter 11 petition would mean that creditors could not enforce their rights under the facility to recoup property/assets from the debtor. However, if an unconditional guarantee was granted under the facility agreement to the lender, the lender would be able to pursue repayment from the guarantor.

Question 4.2 [maximum 5 marks]

Considering the facts set forth in Question 4.1, what protections does the Bankruptcy Code provide to lessors of office space to Rental Corporation?

The Bankruptcy Code was amended by the 2005 Bankruptcy Abuse Prevention and Consumer Protection Act whereby a deadline was implemented for the assumption or rejection of non-residential property. In addition, the Act limited the extension of the exclusivity period for proposing a reorganization plan under chapter 11 proceedings. Further, the Act also requires courts to hold more status conferences to manage the progress of cases. The extent to which protection is actually offered to lessors of office space is limited, however, as the market appears to have shifted away from full chapter 11 reorganizations towards liquidations for lease dependent corporations. Given the shift to remote working over the least 18 months, it is likely that this shift towards liquidations will be exacerbated.

Question 4.3 [maximum 5 marks]

Paint Corporation formulates house paint according to proprietary and patented recipes at its factory in the United States, which it sells to home improvement stores under a number of distribution contracts. The US Environmental Protection Agency is investigating whether Paint Corporation's operations are causing harmful chemicals to contaminate a nearby river. Paint Corporation is concerned it cannot afford the clean-up that may be required and is seeking to sell its business. Home Corporation is interested in buying the business, but does not want the potentially contaminated property (it can manufacture paint at its own factory) and is concerned about obtaining consent from all the home improvement stores to assign the distribution contracts. How would a sale under section 363 of the Bankruptcy Code address these issues?

A section 363 sale is a preferable option for Home Corporation as an out of court sale would require the consolidation of creditor claims relating to any interests they have in the estate of Paint Corporation. By contrast, a section 363 sale allows Paint Corporation to sell its business/assets free and clear of creditor interests with court approval.

A section 363 sale allows for the practice of an auction with a 'stalking horse' bidder which would benefit Home Corporation. Paint Corporation would be able to market its business and invite interested parties (including Home Corporation) to conduct due diligence which would lead to the negotiation of sale documents with Home Corporation. Home Corporation would be able to negotiate to purchase the assets of Paint Corporation, excluding any potentially contaminated property. The debtor is also able to transfer its interest in the distribution contracts required to operate the business as the distribution contracts can be rejected during the period of either 60 days of the petition date (chapter 7) or until the date a chapter 11 reorganisation is finalized.
