QUESTION 2 (direct questions) [10 marks]

Question 2.1 [maximum 2 marks]

Explain what the term "international insolvency law" means.

[International Insolvency Law is a set of rules and guidelines for identification of jurisdiction of domestic insolvency legal system applicable in International dispute between foreign/domestic parties.]

Elaboration is warranted.

Question 2.2 [maximum 5 marks]

Differentiate between the concepts of universality and territoriality in cross-border insolvency.

[The principle of Universality is based on the idea that only one forum/court should have the jurisdiction for insolvency proceedings covering all of the debtor's assets located internationally and the jurisdictional state could be where the debtor's assets are located. Further, all the claims are treated on equal basis and the creditors are given equal opportunity for participating in the universal insolvency proceedings initiated against the debtor. However, through universality, it would be difficult to address legal issues such as applicability of choice of law and priority rules and would open domestic markets to strategic vulnerability.

The principle of territorialism is about multiple insolvency proceedings against the corporate Debtor running simultaneously in states where the debtor holds its assets. Territorialism deals with protection of national interest by protecting the National Creditors. One of the major drawback of territorialism is that the debtor could be insolvent in one state but solvent in other state. The principle of universality is supported by international observers irrespective of the problems created by this approach, however the national interest could be easily identified and defended by the principle of territoriality.]

There is scope to elaborate upon recognition and effect in that for example, with universalism, recognition and effect requires that other States recognise that one set insolvency proceedings (that all agreed is the appropriate jurisdiction) and recognise it as having extraterritorial effect in their States.

QUESTION 3 (essay-type questions) [15 marks in total]

Question 3.1 [maximum 5 marks]

Write a brief note on the differences regarding the objectives of insolvency for individuals and corporations.

[The objectives of insolvency for individuals and corporations are distinguished as follow by Sealy and Hooley:

Objective of Insolvency for Individuals:

1. It enables the debtor to make a fresh start;
2. It protects the debtor from harassment by his creditors;
3. It reduces the indebtedness of the debtor by making contributions from present and future income to the estate along with taking the personal circumstances into consideration.

Objective of Insolvency for Corporations:

1. Insolvency enables the corporations to preserve the business or the viable parts of the business (not the company)
2. It imposes personal liability on the responsible persons, where the personal liability is abuse for one's own interest.

However, there are certain situations in which the objective applies to both individuals and corporations:

1. Ensuring equal distribution as far as possible, except in cases wherein the creditors have priority.
2. Investigating the reasons for failure
3. Reclaiming voidable dispositions where the insolvent debtor disposed the assets with malafide intention.]

There is scope to elaborate further, for example with respect to exempt assets.

Question 3.2 [maximum 5 marks]

Write a brief note on the difficulties that may be encountered when dealing with insolvency law in a cross-border context relating to pertinent differences in the relevant systems.

[Various difficulties are encountered when dealing with insolvency law in a cross border context relating to differences in the relevant systems. The national and international laws on insolvency shows lack of structure to deal with cross border insolvency cases. A territorial approach can cause difficulties in case of lack of co-operation and co-ordination between the member states/different states to deal with cross border insolvency.

In certain cases, it is not possible to subject an individual to collective insolvency proceedings, whereas in others it is allowed when person is a trader or an individual. Further, in enterprise groups, separate application needs to be filed for each member of the enterprise group for commencement of insolvency proceedings despite the status of enterprise group as single entities.]

This answer displays a satisfactory understanding of the issues. To improve your responses, ensure they are commensurate with the mark allocation – while Q 3.2 asks for a brief note, it is for 5 marks. Further detail would be beneficial. For example, consideration of Westbrook’s 9 key issues.

Question 3.3 [maximum 5 marks]

What multilateral steps have been taken in the 21st century to promote harmonisation of domestic insolvency laws? In your opinion, how much impact are these likely to have in addressing international insolvency issues? Include reasons for your opinion.

[Various multilateral steps have been taken to promote harmonisation of domestic insolvency laws:

1. The World Bank introduced guidelines on regulation of Insolvency entitled Principles for Effective Insolvency and Creditor/Debtor Regimes, revised in recent years (latest being April 2021). They promote convergence of insolvency laws.
2. In 2004, the UNCITRAL introduced the Legislative guide on Insolvency Laws to be used as a reference for preparing new laws and regulations by legislative bodies
3. In 2010, The European Union also took steps towards harmonisation of domestic insolvency laws of member states by publishing a report on Harmonization of Insolvency Laws at EU Level, highlighting the difference between domestic insolvencies laws within the EU and identified the areas wherein reforms are possible.

In my opinion, the aforementioned will have a reasonable impact in addressing the international insolvency issues.

1. Harmonisation would resolve the issue of divergent insolvency law (particularly in Europe) among different states.
2. Non-discrimination amongst the creditors, i.e., resident in different member states.
3. Cost Reduction in multiple insolvency proceedings, especially before harmonisation of the proceedings.]

Good. It would be beneficial to also consider pressures from politics, foreign investors and loan providers.
