QUESTION 2 (direct questions) [10 marks]

Question 2.1 [maximum 2 marks]

Explain what the term "international insolvency law" means.

This is a set of rules that regulate how to deal with financially distressed debtors that have assets or creditors across more than one country. It is not fully enforceable but is there to give guidance on how to deal with certain insolvency matters. This is needed due to each country having differing legislation and approaches to insolvency.

There is scope to elaborate

Question 2.2 [maximum 5 marks]

Differentiate between the concepts of universality and territoriality in cross-border insolvency.

The Universalism approach is when there is only one insolvency proceeding that deals with all of the worldwide assets and debts of a debtor. Only the chosen state should have the jurisdiction to deal with all insolvency matters and no other insolvency proceedings would be brought against the debtor. The worldwide creditors should all get the chance to participate and the claims are treated equally. A benefit is lower costs and a drawback is that it can be difficult to decide which is the most appropriate state.

The Territorialism approach is the direct opposite of universalism where multiple proceedings can be brought against a debtor, each from a different state where the debtor has assets, based on co-operation between the different proceedings. These proceedings would only deal with the debtors property local to that jurisdiction and only deal with claims from creditors local to that state. A benefit of this is that national interests are protected and a drawback is that the debtor could be seen as insolvent in one state but solvent in another.

There is scope to elaborate with respect to recognition and effect in that for example, with universalism, recognition and effect requires that other States recognise that one set insolvency proceedings (that all agreed is the appropriate jurisdiction) and recognise it as having extraterritorial effect in their States.

Question 2.3 [maximum 3 marks]

Describe three recent examples of developments in the Middle East region to reform domestic insolvency laws or to address international insolvency Issues.

UAE, Dubai and Saudi Arabia have all improved their domestic insolvency laws recently. UAE in 2016 and 2019, Dubai in 2019 and Saudi Arabia in 2018.

In 2018 Bahrain adopted the Model Law on Cross-Border Insolvency, and so did the Dubai International Financial Centre in 2019.

QUESTION 3 (essay-type questions) [15 marks in total]

Question 3.1 [maximum 5 marks]

Write a brief note on the differences regarding the objectives of insolvency for individuals and corporations.

The objective of insolvency for an individual is to protect the debtor from being harassed by its creditors and to allow the individual to make a fresh start. The idea is to reduce the indebtedness making contributions from income made in the past and in the future. Personal circumstances should be taken into account.

The objective of insolvency for corporations is to preserve the business rather than the company. This could mean that only the viable parts are kept. Personal liability should be imposed on the responsible parties where there has been an abuse of personal liability.

This answer displays a satisfactory understanding of the issues. To improve your responses, ensure they are commensurate with the mark allocation – while Q 3.1 asks for a brief note, it is for 5 marks.

Question 3.2 [maximum 5 marks]

Write a brief note on the difficulties that may be encountered when dealing with insolvency law in a cross-border context relating to pertinent differences in the relevant systems.

The most difficult part about dealing with cross-border insolvencies is that different states have differing types of security. As an example the notion of a floating charge is common in states that are based on English law, whereas this form of security is non known in states based on civil law. Another difficulty is the fact that there should be some co-operation and co-ordination between states but this can be difficult. Each state will have its own laws and legislations and different terminologies so this will have an effect on the insolvency.

Further detail would be beneficial. For example, consideration of Westbrook's 9 key issues.

Question 3.3 [maximum 5 marks]

What multilateral steps have been taken in the 21st century to promote harmonisation of domestic insolvency laws? In your opinion, how much impact are these likely to have in addressing international insolvency issues? Include reasons for your opinion.

UNCITRAL prepared the 'Legislative Guide on Insolvency Law' in 2004 to act as a reference guide for national authorities and legislative bodies. It provides the key principles and objectives that should be addressed in a states insolvency laws. The aim is to assist in law reform so that all states have the same core basis to deal with insolvency proceeding.

The World Bank produced the 'Principles for Effective Insolvency and Creditor/Debtor Regimes' in the early 2000's which is a set of guidelines on how to regulate insolvency. The principles have been revised several times, most recently in April 2021. By referring countries to both the Legislative Guide and the Principles they promote a union of insolvency law.

The European Parliament created a report on the 'Harmonisation of Insolvency Law at EU Level' in 2010 which highlighted the differences between domestic insolvency laws in the EU and pointed out some areas where harmonisation of laws is worthwhile and achievable.

The European Commission published the 'Action Plan on Building a Capital Markets Union' on 30 September 2015 where it is stated that converging insolvency and restructuring proceedings would allow for more legal certainty for cross-border investors and encourage the timely restructuring of viable businesses. The final report is called 'A new Vision for Europe's capital markets and was published on 10 June 2020.

What is your opinion on how much impact these are likely to have in addressing international insolvency issues? Elaboration is warranted.
