QUESTION 3 (essay-type questions) [15 marks in total]

Commented [WPA8]: 9/15

Question 3.1 [maximum 6 marks]

Commented [WPA9]: 4/6 a sound answer but lacking in some detail

Can an administrator who wishes to continue to operate the business of the company in administration require suppliers of goods and services to continue to supply those goods and services during the administration?

[Yes, an administrator can require suppliers of goods and services to continue to supply those goods and services during the administration. This situation is regulated by Section 233, 233A and 233B of the Act. Section 233 of the Act applies to a supply essential supplies, such as gas, electricity, water and communications services, such as point of sale terminals, computer hardware and software, information, advice, and technical assistance, data storage and processing and website hosting. Under section 233A a supplier of such services is generally unable to rely upon an "insolvency-related term" in a contract. Section 233B prohibits clauses which allow the supplier of goods or services to terminate or "do any other thing" in relation to that contract if the company enters a formal insolvency procedure.]

Question 3.2 [maximum 9 marks]

Commented [WPA10]: 5/9 Another sound answer but the question did ask for an explanation of the nature of the rights of each class which is only partially addressed

Explain the order of priority of payments in a liquidation and explain the nature of the rights enjoyed by each class of creditor or expense. How would this priority change if the company had been subject to a Moratorium under Part A1 of the Insolvency Act 1986 during the 12 week period prior to the commencement of the liquidation?

[The order of priority of payments in a liquidation: creditors with fixed security will usually enforce their security outside any formal insolvency; the statutory order will be expenses (including the remuneration of the office-holder); preferential creditors (the company's employees and HMRC regarding taxes collected by the company but not paid over to the Government); floating charge holders (subject to section 176A); unsecured creditors. Section 174A affords certain unsecured debts a form of "super priority" in a subsequent liquidation (for example, unsecured debt of the director, unsecured (or secured) pre-Moratorium bank debt)]

QUESTION 4 (fact-based application-type question) [15 marks in total]

Commented [WPA11]: 0/15 - no answer

Prior to going into compulsory liquidation on 23rd December 2022, under pressure from its bank, Fretus Bank plc, and in order to prevent it from demanding repayment of the company's loans, Marbley Q Limited ("the Company"), granted a debenture in favour of Fretus Bank plc in February 2022. The debenture contained a floating charge over the whole of the Company's undertaking.

The winding up order followed a creditor's winding up petition issued on 14th October 2022.

In July 2022, as the Company continued to suffer cash flow problems, the directors approved the sale of two (2) marble cutting machines to Rita Perkins (a director) for GBP 10,000 in cash. The machines had been bought for GBP 25,000 a year before.

A month before the winding up order was made, Rita Perkins received an email from Hard and Fast Ltd, one of the Company's key suppliers. The supplier demanded immediate payment of all sums owing to it and informed the Company that further supplies would only be made on a cash on delivery basis. As the continued supply of marble was seen as essential by the Company, the board authorised a payment of GBP 8,000 to cover existing liabilities and agreed to further payments, on a cash on delivery basis, for further supplies which amounted to further payment of GBP 3,000 up to the date of the winding up order.

The liquidator has asked for advice whether any action may be taken in respect of the floating charge in favour of Fretus Bank plc and the two subsequent transactions. Using the facts above, answer the questions that follow.

Identify the relevant issues and statutory provisions and consider whether the liquidator may take any action in relation to:
