QUESTION 2 (direct questions) [10 marks] (8)

Question 2.1 [2 marks] (2)

What bankruptcy test(s) should be met if a bankruptcy petition is filed by a creditor in China?

[For creditors a cash-flow bankruptcy test is used before the court accepts a bankruptcy petition]

Question 2.2 [maximum 4 marks] (3)

Name the two professions in China that dominate Chinese regional bankruptcy administrator lists and briefly explain how they are appointed in practice.

[Lawyers and accountants dominate in Chinese regional bankruptcy administrator lists. Being listed is a great privilege for legal and accounting associations. Article 13 of the China Enterprise Bankruptcy Law of 2006 provides for appointment of the bankruptcy administrator by the court. The Chinese courts generally use the locally qualified bankruptcy practitioner list to select the candidate firm. In many provinces the local provincial Supreme People's Court has the power of appointing bankruptcy administrators. In other provinces, this power can be exercised by a local Intermediate People's Court.]

Question 2.3 [maximum 4 marks] (3)

Name the most used type of securities available under Chinese law and explain how and where they are registered.

*[There are generally three forms of securities in China:
- fixed charges (can be created upon buildings or the use right of land); must be registered under China Civil Code 2020. For immovable property the registration authority is the local office of the China Housing Management Authority and most* secured creditors tend to simultaneously register the charge at the local office of the China Land Management Authority:

- pledges (can be made upon assets such as shares, trademarks and patents); must be registered under China Civil Code 2020. For trademarks the registration authority is the China Industries and Commerce Regulation Bureau Central Office; a pledge on patents should be registered at the China Intellectual Property Authority Central Office; for shares of listed companies the registration authority is the China Securities Depository and Clearing Corporation Limited; in the case of shares of a non-listed company the registration of a pledge takes place at the local office of the China Industries and Commerce Regulation Bureau where the company is incorporated;*
- liens (rarely used in China).]*

QUESTION 3 (essay-type questions) 15 marks in total

Question 3.1 [maximum 8 marks] (3)

“The China Enterprise Bankruptcy Law of 2006 is a rescue-oriented piece of insolvency legislation, emphasising rescue over liquidation.”

Discuss what legal mechanisms in this statute can support this statement.

[There are three bankruptcy options under the China Enterprise Bankruptcy Law of 2006. The first is the bankruptcy reorganisation procedure. The bankruptcy reorganisation procedure is aimed to rescue the company and to avoid liquidation. The second bankruptcy law option is also a rescue procedure called settlement, in which the company is obliged to present a debt compromise plan to the creditors. If the compromise plan passes the vote of creditors, the company can also avoid liquidation. The third bankruptcy option is the liquidation, where the bankruptcy administrator is to sell the company assets, pay creditors according to the distribution priority order and file a notice to the government company registration authority so as to officially dissolve the company.]

Question 3.2 [maximum 7 marks] (0)

Briefly explain the process for the proof of claims in a corporate liquidation procedure and the procedure that is followed should the value or existence of a creditor’s claim be disputed.

[Under Article 7 of the China Enterprise Bankruptcy Law of 2006, if the company is unable to pay a debt that is due, the creditor can file for liquidation in court. The filing creditor must convince the court that the debtor is cash-flow insolvent, namely that the debtor is unable to pay a debt that is due. Under Article 10 of the China Enterprise Bankruptcy Law of 2006, in the event of an involuntary liquidation filing the company is given seven days to raise an objection; and whether the liquidation procedure should be formally opened will be in the discretion of the court. If a liquidation petition accepted by the court, the liquidation procedure formally begins]

QUESTION 4 (fact-based application-type question) [15 marks in total] (6)

Question 4.1 [maximum 8 marks] (2)

The bankruptcy liquidator of a Singaporean company finds that some of the company's assets are located in Shanghai, China. A Chinese creditor has taken legal action in a local (Chinese) court, which has issued an injunction freezing the assets of the Singaporean company in China. The liquidator has approached you for advice on how the Singaporean bankruptcy proceeding can be recognised in China. Advise the liquidator.

[Under Article 5 of the China Enterprise Bankruptcy Law of 2006, the Singaporean bankruptcy proceeding can be recognised in China if some assets are located there (in the case the bankruptcy liquidator of a Singaporean company finds that some of the company's assets are located in Shanghai). The applicant must prove that there is a judicial assistance treaty over civil and commercial matters between China and the foreign country in which the judgment is produced. If there is no treaty, a foreign judgment can be recognised in China if the applicant can prove that there is judicial reciprocity established between China and the foreign country. Reciprocity means that a Chinese judgment recognised in that foreign country.]

Question 4.2 [maximum 7 marks] (4)

HuangPu Food Limited is a large beverage company based in Shanghai. In 2010, the company was unable to repay a RMB 23 million loan to the Bank of China (Shanghai Branch) and was petitioned for bankruptcy liquidation by the Bank at the Shanghai Second Intermediate People's Court. Three days after submitting the petition, the Court accepted the liquidation filing and appointed Fenda Partners, a local law firm included in the local bankruptcy administrator list, as the liquidation administrator.

Shortly after the commencement of the bankruptcy of HuangPu Food Limited, the CEO of Naking Limited, a controlling shareholder holding 32% of the equity of HuangPu Food Limited, approaches you for advice.

Using the facts above, answer the questions that follow.

Question 4.2.1 [maximum 4 marks] (4)

The CEO of Naking Limited tells you that the various businesses of HuangPu Food Limited are still viable and that a piecemeal liquidation of the company will not be in the interests of any of the stakeholders. Since HuangPu Food Limited appears to have a bright future if the current debt crisis can be resolved, you are asked to explain whether (and if so, how) the current liquidation procedure can be converted to a reorganisation procedure.

[The Chinese bankruptcy law allows for conversion liquidation procedure into reorganization procedure under certain conditions. If there is an involuntary liquidation procedure filed by a creditor, the debtor or its shareholders holding 10% or more of the company's equity can petition the court for the conversion into reorganisation. Upon approval by the court, liquidation will be changed to reorganization.]

Question 4.2.2 [maximum 3 marks] (0)

Assuming that the bankruptcy liquidation of HuangPu Food Limited is successfully converted to a reorganisation procedure, a reorganisation plan for HuangPu Food Limited is eventually voted on by the various stakeholders. Due to the fact that HuangPu Food Limited is insolvent, the reorganisation plan inter alia proposes that the shares of all previous shareholders be cancelled. Unhappy that its equity in HuangPu Food Limited will be wiped out by the reorganisation plan, Naking Limited understandably votes against the plan. However, since the plan has only been voted down by the shareholders and approved by all the classes of creditors, the reorganisation administrator submits the reorganisation plan to the Shanghai Second Intermediate Court for approval.

Advise the CEO of Naking Limited as to whether the Court can approve such a plan under the current law in China.
