Briefly explain the two-pronged nature of the duty to act with independence and impartiality.

[Independence in fact implies that the insolvency practitioner is actually not influenced by any external factors (personal and professional relationships, direct or indirect interests) which could compromise them.  $^{^{4}}$ Foundation Certificate in International Insolvency Law, Module 9 Guidance Text, Section 5.2.2, page 15.

Which elements of insolvency proceedings are especially prone to create or give rise to threats to independence and impartiality? Please elaborate with reference to primary and secondary sources of law.

[Among the elements of insolvency which are especially exposed to the risks related to independence and impartiality are:

- 1. Pre-commencement / appointment involvement. Usually, before appointment an insolvency practitioner has consultations with the company and stakeholders. While such consultations expose the insolvency practitioner to the risk of being considered bias, consultations are considered appropriate as long as they are limited to certain aspects and do not involve any advice (See for example Re Korda, Ten Network Ltd (Admn Apptd) (Recs and Mgrs Apptd) [2017] FCA 914 [Australia])]
- 2. Appointment. The insolvency practitioner is considered to be under influence of the person who appoints them. However, appointment is not a sufficient evidence of the insolvency practitioner being bias as long as they remember their duties and do not give any promises to the persons who appointed them.
- 3. Subsequent appointment. In some jurisdictions, the sequential appointment of one insolvency practitioner in different bankruptcy procedures is considered a ground for a conflict of interest (See, for instance the Insolvency Code of Ethics of the Institute of Chartered Accountants of England and Wales) or prohibited (see, for instance South African Companies Act of 2008). Subsequent appointment is believed to give rise to the self-review and self-interest threats.
- 4. Personal transactions with the company. Since the insolvency practitioner should act in the best interests of the company's creditors and the other stakeholders, a situation when they purchase the debtor's property or realised the estate to their own interest. ⁵

QUESTION 4 (fact-based application-type question) [15 marks in total]

WeBuild Ltd is a private company registered in Eurafriclia. The company specialises in construction and property development and is well known in the area where it conducts its business. Mr B Inlaw, Dr I Dontcare and Mrs I Relevant are the directors of the company. The company has ten shareholders, with Mr B Inlaw and Dr I Dontcare also holding shares in the company.

The company traded profitably for the last 10 years but recently started to experience financial difficulties. One of the main reasons for the financial decline is the fact that several of the company's employees have instituted a class action claim against WeBuild for workplace-related injuries due to faulty machinery. This also resulted in bad publicity that led to a decline in contracts. The directors of the company were made aware of the issues relating to the machinery, but chose not to take any action to remedy the situation. When the company's financial position started to decline the directors continued to trade as if nothing was amiss and even made several large payments to themselves by way of performance bonuses. When they received a letter of demand from the company's major secured creditor, ABC Bank, the directors decided to call a shareholders' meeting to discuss the company's options.

Present at this meeting were the shareholders, the directors and Mr Relation, a lawyer and licensed insolvency practitioner, to provide them with information and advice in relation to their options. Some of the shareholders recognised Mr Relation as Mr B Inlaw's brother-in-law and godfather to his daughter. During the meeting, Mr Relation suggests that the company enter into a voluntary administration procedure. Mr B Inlaw suggests that the company appoint Mr Relation as administrator. He accepts the appointment, ensuring that he discloses his relationship with Mr B Inlaw and says that he will declare that he believes that he will still be able to act with the required independence and impartiality. An undertaking that he complies with by subsequently issuing a written declaration of independence.

After the meeting adjourns, Mr B Inlaw requests the other directors and Mr Relation to stay behind for a brief "planning" meeting. During this subsequent meeting the directors inform Mr Relation that they are concerned about their personal liability for breach of duty. Moreover, they are worried that they might land in hot water due to their decision to continue trading when the company was clearly in dire financial straits. Mr Relation assures them that his focus will not be on them but on trying to rescue the company.

In the weeks that follow, Mr Relation conducts a superficial investigation into the affairs of the company and the circumstances leading to the financial difficulties of the company. He relies on detailed reports drafted by Mr B Inlaw regarding the company's business and drafts a strategic plan for recovery based on his investigation and the reports he received.

At a meeting of creditors to consider the plan, Mr Relation states that he has found no evidence of any wrongdoing or maladministration by the company's directors. Mrs Keeneye, a lawyer attending the meeting on behalf of ABC Bank, the major secured creditor, recognises Mr Relation from a television interview where Mr Relation expressed the opinion that banks should be more accommodating in restructuring proceedings and that he thinks that the interests of lower ranking creditors should sometimes outweigh "big money" (referring to financial institutions). She immediately feels uncomfortable with his appointment as administrator.

Several months later the administration fails due to a "lack of funding" to finance the rescue. The administration is subsequently converted to liquidation proceedings and Mr Relation is appointed as the liquidator.

Mr Relation's firm has been implementing a work-from-home arrangement for employees, and his secretary and associate have several sensitive documents pertaining to WeBuild Ltd in their possession and on their personal computers at home.

INSTRUCTIONS

There are at least THREE major ethical issues in this factual scenario.

You are required to identify these ethical issues and explain in detail why they are in fact ethical issues. Your answer should include reference to the ethical principles and the commentary thereon. Where appropriate and suitable, you should also endeavour to elaborate on possible remedies or safeguarding mechanisms to minimise or remove the ethical threats.

You may also make use of case law and secondary sources to substantiate your answer.

[First, Mr Relation acting as the company's administrator is the breach of his duty to exercise the powers of the office in an independent and impartial manner principle because he is related to the company's shareholder. There is a risk that Mr Relation might act in favour of Mr Inlaw and thus abuse the insolvency system which is inadmissible under Principle 33 of the World Bank's Principles and Guidelines for Effective Insolvency and Creditor Rights Systems and Principle 2 of the INSOL Principles. The most efficient prevention of the breach of the aforementioned principles is not to accept an appointment in case of any connections with the debtor's stakeholders'. However, Mr Relation has already admitted appointment and is in breach. In addition, Mr Relation risks to breach the principle of integrity (Principle 1 of the INSOL Principles) in the context of fair dealing in case he gives preferential treatment to Mr Inlaw.

Second, Mr Relation privately discussed the risks of directors' personal liability conceiving this fact from all shareholders except for Mr Inlaw. Knowing of the facts of misadministration, Mr Relation misinformed the shareholders that he has not found any evidence of the management wrongdoing. Such behaviour constitutes the breach of duty to act in the best interest of the beneficiary of the fiduciary duties.

There are various theories as to who is insolvency practitioner's (the "IP") beneficiary. For instance, according to the traditionalist theories, the IP shall take into account interests of such stakeholders as employees, suppliers and tax authorities. According to the contractarian and the "enlightened creditor value" theories creditors' interests shall be the IP's priority. In any case, debtor's unfair management cannot be Mr Relation's priority.

Furthermore, Mr Relation has breached the principle of integrity (Principle 1 of the INSOL Principles) since he discussed the potential issues of management's liability in private and was not honest while preparing a report on the Company's financial status. Thus, the Company's major creditor assumes that Mr Relation is not impartial.

Another issue related to Third, Mr Relation's staff keeps confidential documents on their private computers exposing them to the risk of becoming known to the family members. Should Mr Relation admit such behavious of his staff, he will breach his duty to act with care, skill and diligence.

Fourth, Mr Relation's having voiced the "pro-low-ranking-creditors" approach in the past is a clear breach of the principle of integrity since an IP should never favour the interests of creditors, contributories and his appointers.

Commented [LJ13]: Good overall discussion. However, there is limited engagement with the principles and their importance as well as the remedies/safeguards.
